

Eliot Ness Fest: Touched by the Untouchable Update No. 5

YEAR ONE: Here's How You Can Help

Another Potter-Tioga Maple Festival will bring Coudersport to life this weekend. It's an attraction that has pumped millions of dollars into the area's economy while celebrating our maple heritage.

We now have the opportunity to launch another major event that could be an even bigger success!

Through sponsorship of the Eliot Ness Fest, celebrating our most famous citizen, your business or service will be marketed in special collectors' item - a publication that will be the go-to guide for everyone who attends. It will spotlight the schedule of events, the life story of Eliot Ness, points of interest and other interesting content -- a true keepsake! Patron sponsorships are also available for those who want to have a hand in getting this project of the Potter County Historical Society started on the right foot. Deadline for sponsorship and vendor opportunities is May 25. Questions? Send us an email and a committee member will assist you.

Yes, there will be music!

We are fortunate to have landed the BluJayz to perform at the courthouse square during Eliot Ness Fest for a Friday afternoon/early evening set, including appropriate music for the Salute to Law Enforcement, and a more abbreviated show on the musical bill for Saturday. The multi-talented

(now do you get it on the name?) along with popular selections with their own creative twists and turns. These veteran musicians from widely different backgrounds perform songs that span multiple generations and genres. They are committed to making music that is honest, energetic, engaging and fun. Tim Walck will be unable to join his bandmates due to another obligation. No one can fill his shoes, but we hear talk that a couple of ringers may be called in to join the mix.

WEEKLY NESS FACTOIDS

He did that, too!

Prostitution around military bases during World War II was at epidemic proportions and the consequences -- including venereal disease -- were a national security concern. Eliot Ness was assigned by the Federal Bureau of Social Protection to educate the troops. He also rallied law enforcement in communities hosting these military installations to crack down on the sex trade. He produced this booklet, now a collector's item that we'll have on display during the Eliot Ness Fest.
